What is your vision for the future of Douglas County?

My vision is to turn the ordinary into the extraordinary in Douglas County!

Are there other plans you hope to align with the Strategic Plan?

We have several plans that the Board of Commissioners are actively working on such as the Capital Transportation plan, which is underway. We certainly look to align the strategic plan with our Land Use Study plan. Also, our Parks and Recreation Comprehensive plan could be one to align, because it's futuristic. The Special Purpose Local Option Sales Tax (SPLOST) is part of our plan, as well as the overall planning and preparation for our capital assets in the future.

How important is it to engage the citizens around the work of the County Government?

My administration has taken the lead on public engagement by getting our message out directly to the citizens. Our foundation is built on transparency, so we've been able to pull back the curtain and allow our citizens to be engaged in many initiatives. Our work sessions are filmed and open to the public. We rotate morning and evening legislative meetings, we've ramped up our social media, I have a column in the Chapel Hill News, our Commissioners send newsletters to their Districts, we have our DCTV Channel 23, a process to respond to citizens within a 24-hour period and many other ways that we are engaging with our citizens at all levels and across generations.

MESSAGE FROM THE VICE CHAIRMAN

Kelly Robinson - District 2

Kelly Robinson serves as Vice Chairman and the District 2 Commissioner for Douglas County. Voters first elected Vice Chairman Robinson to office in 2008 and re-elected him in 2012, 2016 and 2020.

Commissioner Robinson possesses 27 years of business experience, currently operating as chief executive officer of Archie Mae, a housing advocacy and capital markets firm. Prior to that, he served as Senior Vice President of Strategic Pricing at Wachovia within its $4 billion commercial banking group that encompassed business banking, regional banking, corporate banking, commercial real estate, and treasury services. Robinson also sits on the board of a homeless prevention center, Caring for Others, as well as the Bronner Business Institute.

Robinson has been involved in the negotiation of the intra-county bus system to include "regional" route design connecting through Cobb and Fulton into H.E. Holmes Station (pre-ATL), in the rebranding of all county mobility programs into "Connect Douglas," championed a long-term capital policy that the Board of Commissioners adopted unanimously as well as a long-term capital plan for financial purposes and served as lead local legislator to validate the strategic fit and performed site due diligence leading to the securing of Georgia's largest economic investment deal in history - the $2.5 billion Switch Data Center.

What gets you excited about the future of Douglas County?

For the first time in the county's 150-year history, we have a strategic plan that allows the Board of Commissioners to see a full vision of the county in writing. We now have it all in one place. I can sit back and see everything... a single view of the future. This empowers us to make qualified and informed financial decisions today, for a better tomorrow.

How important is it to engage the citizens around the work of the County Government?

As the senior Commissioner, I've always employed citizen feedback as I advocated the interest of my District. The things that are being manifested across the entire County improves equitable distribution of resources. I do what the citizens ask me to do. From the community center and senior center to the bus system as well as sidewalks, resurfacing and mental health - these have always come from the direct input of my citizenry. By the people and for the people. I advocate the interest of our citizens because it's not about me, it's all about them.

What lessons did you learn during the pandemic that the government will continue forward?

The pandemic revealed a greater and more diverse need in the community whereby a policy position of inclusion is here to stay.

MESSAGE FROM COMMISSIONER

Henry Mitchell III – District 1

Henry Mitchell, III is the District 1 Commissioner for Douglas County. Mitchell enlisted in the United States Army after graduating from Henry Grady High School in Atlanta, GA. He served his military time at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii and after completing his tour of duty with the Wolfhounds, Mitchell received an Honorable Discharge from the Armed Forces.

Upon his discharge, he began a career in the broadcasting industry - known as "Mitch Henry." Working for many radio stations around the country including 1400 The Touch (Pennsylvania), WIBB (Georgia), WBLX (Alabama), and V103/WAOK (Georgia), Mitchell has held numerous positions from on-air personality, production director to operations manager.

Adding to his civic commitment, Mitchell served as Mayor Pro Tem (Vice Mayor) of the City of Douglasville, GA where he was Chairman of the Finance, Information Technology and Personnel/ Organizational Committees. He is the founder and Chairman of the Northside Community Initiative, the annual Multi-cultural Enrichment Back-to-School Festival, Communications Chairman of the United Negro College Fund, and Assistant Coach of the Winston Raiders 150 pound Football Team.

What does the strategic plan do for the Douglas County Government and its citizens?

It gives us a sense of direction. A sense of where we are going and what that looks like when it comes to the make up of Douglas County.

How important is it to engage the citizens around the work of the County Government?

Engaging our citizens is extremely important. I want to know what they envision for the County 5-, 10- or 20- years down the road. When you break out the age demographics, 18–34-year-olds or 25–54-year-olds, some will be up-and-coming leaders, and others will be seniors trying to enjoy the seeds of their labor. I want to know what the future looks like to them. The final execution and the decision lie with the Board including myself, however, I still want citizen input, which is extremely important to me because my vision needs to line up with theirs.

What is your vision for the future of Douglas County?

I'll start with my District, where I envision an Atlantic Station area on the north side that will progress that part of town forward. I see a transportation system to get people moving to jobs, to grocery stores and doctor's appointments that will ensure citizens are active who don't access to cars. How do we balance economically the investments needed without an undue tax burden on our county residents? Also, how do we entice, encourage, and attract a true economic platform that's appealing to businesses, and have that proper balance mentioned earlier? I think we're doing an excellent job moving in the right direction to produce that balance of economic growth and value for our citizens. It's a great layout and look to the future. That's the legacy that I want to leave to those who are coming after me. When I pass the torch, I still want it to be lit.

Yes, I want it to be fair to all Districts. In my District, there is a plan to increase the size of the Dog River reservoir, which will create a beach area for the County. I hope to align this new development with the plan.

What gets you excited about the future of Douglas County?

I am excited about controlled growth. Some areas don't want the traffic or the growth, so maintaining green and clean areas in my district, especially down in the Capps Ferry Road and Fairplay areas, are important.

What is your vision for the citizens of Douglas County?

My vision is a good quality of life, representative government, equity in government to all of the districts, because we all pay the same sales tax and property tax therefore, we should all be equally represented.

What does the strategic plan do for the Douglas County Government and its citizens?

"If you fail to plan, you plan to fail." Benjamin Franklin

The strategic plan puts me in a unique position because it allows me to have a roadmap to execute against for the Board of Commissioners. The Board sets policy and as their full-time employee, I take their policy, their vision, their mission, their direction, and execute against that. I'm the person who will take the plan and put it into action and my strength is delivering results. The strategic plan comes at a perfect time because it allows me to have some very collective direction from the board. As we see opportunities arise in the future, we're able to use this plan as a roadmap and a guide to help us to execute and deliver results not just for the board but for the citizens who live here in Douglas County.

What lessons did you learn during the pandemic that the government will continue forward?

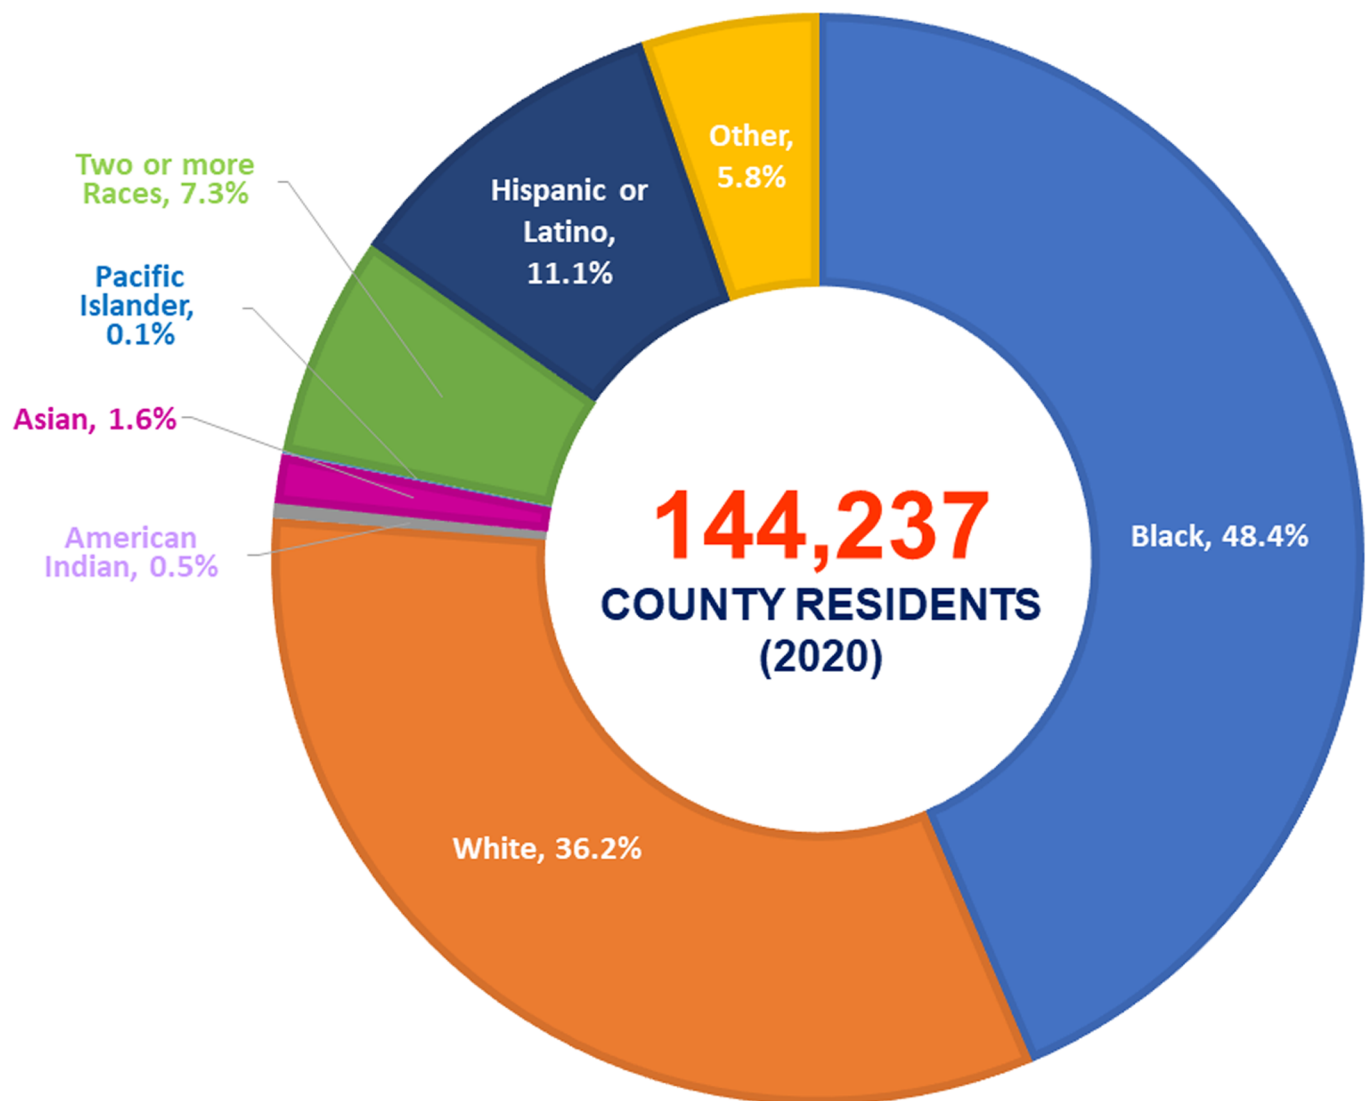

Lessons learned included having the ability to run the government from remote locations to make the shift seamlessly. I learned that we need to make greater investments in technology and process improvements to become more nimble and paperless, more customer-friendly online, and more citizen-centric.

What is your vision for the future of Douglas County?

I want us to be that place where people view us as a great place to live, work and play. Why a Strategic Plan

Douglas County Government and other public-sector leaders are facing unique challenges in this current operating environment. Political upheaval is the norm, and technology continues to alter the ways that society functions.

In such an environment, government institutions must up their game or risk becoming irrelevant to the citizens they serve. Because confidence has slipped and must now be rebuilt, governments will be forced to take a major leap in the ways that they plan and execute strategy. Douglas County aspires to institute a strategic plan that identifies the right priorities and drives decision making that supports those priorities. Our efforts are focused in the four areas we've outlined – culture, purpose, operating model, and execution- to move this government from planning to delivery of results for the citizens of Douglas County.

Government should cultivate a strategic culture to improve performance in the other three areas

Defining and leveraging the organization's purpose involves outlining a clear vision, setting strategic objectives linked to that vision, and creating a strong narrative

The right data, clear accountability, and appropriate incentives will improve execution and learning

To transform the operating model, government should enhance risk management, engage with external stakeholders, and align resources with strategy

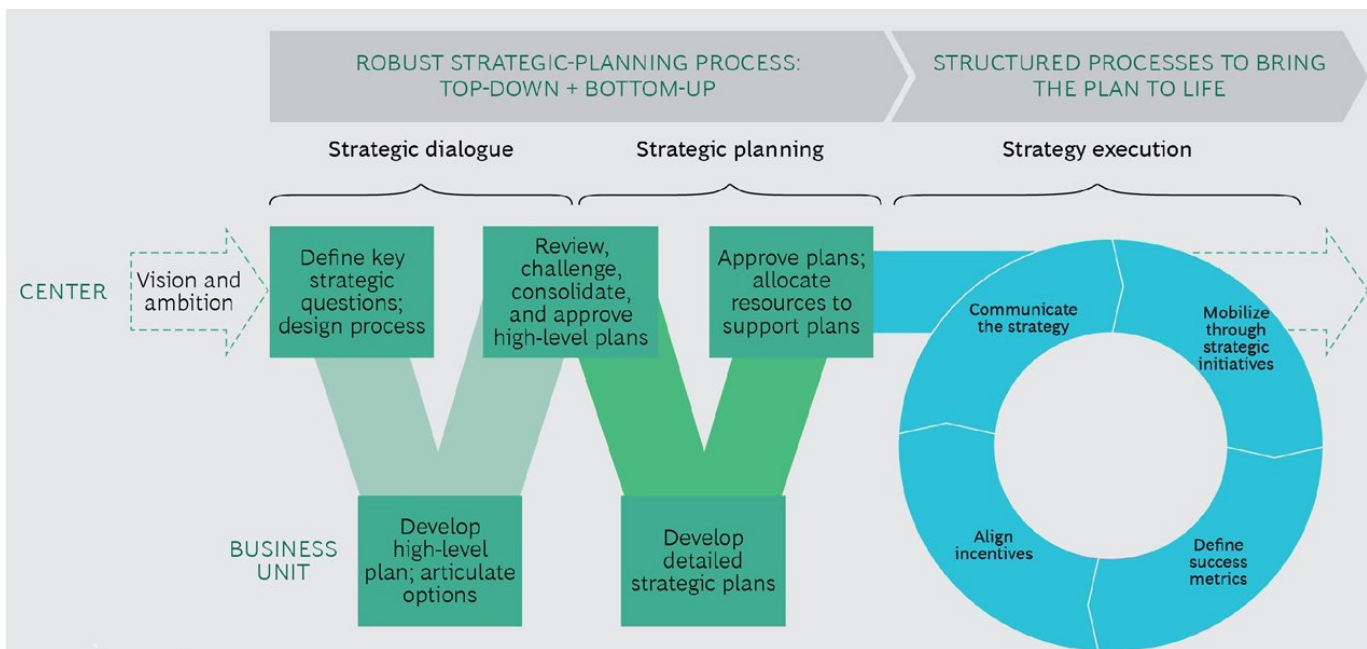

The Strategic Planning Process

Douglas County embarked on this strategic planning process with a goal of creating strategic objectives based on citizen feedback. We had three guiding principles that drove our engagement.

The three (3) Guiding Principles were:

1. All perspectives will be heard & valued
2. Engage every activity with the citizens in mind
3. Produce transparent & tangible results

The project team met with citizens across each district via virtual sessions. We also met with many special interest groups to ensure that we had a diverse set of citizens across the entire Douglas County Community. We will use this feedback to help inform the County Government on the important objects over the next 5 years. Lastly, we also utilized a tiered polling process that enabled us to get the initial broad feedback and a second poll to refine the choices that we received from the community.
